

I read that you are considering lifting the ban on the use of cellular phones during a flight. My hope is you Will NOT DO THAT. In consideration of all passengers, it would be an intrusion. People are not considerate and tend to speak very loudly on the phones. The minute we land most phones are fired up: it's a constant chatter. Please, leave things as they are. Thank you, Kari McCluer